VOLUME 10
New Deaf Studies Program

Readies Students for Work

Beginning in fall 2013, Western Nevada College will offer a newly revised degree and a certification preparation sequence for students interested in working with the deaf and hard of hearing. The new curriculum ladders coursework so that students can prepare for a Certificate of Completion in Interpreting, which can be put to immediate use in the job market. Then, students may continue their education, working toward an American Sign Language Certificate of Achievement, and ultimately earning an Associate of Applied Science degree in Deaf Studies.

Students who complete WNC’s interpreting certification preparation acquire the skills necessary to take the Educational Interpreter Performance Assessment for educational interpreting, or the National Interpreter Certification exam, for community interpreting.

“In today’s economy it is rare to find a field in which there is high demand,” said Professor of Deaf Studies Cindy Frank. “But, educational and community sign language interpreters are in very high demand throughout the United States and Canada.”

The courses completed for the certification preparation sequence can be applied toward a WNC Certificate of Achievement, which provides basic interpersonal conversation skills. With American Sign Language being the third most used language in the United States, employees who can demonstrate these bilingual skills are always in demand.

The Associate of Applied Science in Deaf Studies degree provides students with a strong linguistic and cultural foundation, enabling them to enter any career profession that works with people who are deaf or hard of hearing. Students seeking the AAS degree will acquire fluency in American Sign Language and educational approaches in language development. Students will study the rich cultural and historic aspects of the deaf community and will learn about the current issues facing the deaf or hard of hearing.

Western has helped nearly 200 students receive employment in this field, and the new curriculum offers students a clear path to completing a degree, with career advancing training that can help put them to work. Upon earning the AAS, students can pursue careers in educational or community interpreting, Certified deaf interpreting or take the foundational skills and apply them to teaching, speech and language pathology, social work, psychology or any occupation that interacts with the deaf community.

A pathway to career success in technical fields is now just a few clicks away on Western Nevada College’s website. WNC has implemented Career Pathways, a student-oriented guide and roadmap that assist adults and youth in their professional development to achieve college degrees, certificates and industry credentials, easing their transition into the workforce.

Viewers will find a series of connected education programs, training possibilities and support services to plan for a technical career. This all-in-one-spot for career planning can lead students to demand occupations, increased wages and lifelong learning.

Instead of being led on a paper trail to reach their goals, students now can use WNC’s interactive website to become informed about their career choices. They can explore career clusters in business and marketing, health science and public safety, information and media technologies, and skilled and technical sciences. Additional resources are at the user’s fingertips, including links to current job openings.

“This is a wonderful addition to the existing college advising and instructional support services,” said Connie Capurro, WNC Vice President of Academic and Student Affairs. “Career Pathways integrates instruction, hands-on training and student support. It’s an additional tool to help students look at a variety of training, degree and certificate options.”

The program not only offers students a visual presentation of their career interest, it identifies employment opportunities in real-time.

“We’re looking to promote program areas to new students,” said Kevin Edwards, Tech Prep coordinator at WNC. “A lot of times students will have a list of classes they need to take, but young people now want to know what jobs they might lead to, and the possible outcomes.

“College can be intimidating, and we want to break down some of those barriers. You have to have a vision for yourself as a student,” Edwards said.

It also can help a student who hasn’t decided on a career, providing the latest information to help make an informed decision.

“The program broadens the options for students who come to college with limited knowledge of careers that might fit their interests and their skill set,” Capurro said.

“We are working on breaking down stereotypes. We are helping young people understand that they don’t have to get a four-year bachelor’s degree to become successful,” Edwards said.

Resources such as the United States Department of Labor or the U.S. Census Bureau pinpoint the fastest-growing job occupations to help determine a career pathway. These statistics can also provide a vision for how colleges such as WNC can design or adjust their training programs.

New Technology Degree
Responds to Local Industry Needs

This fall, Western Nevada College will begin offering a new Associate of Applied Science - Technology degree that teaches students broad-based technical skills, giving them an edge in today’s workforce. The degree has five individual emphases, including automated systems, construction, general industrial technology, machine tool and welding. The emphases allow students to choose a specialization that best fits their career interests or strengths, while incorporating a sampling of each of technology to help them develop well-rounded, employable skills.

Professor of Computer Information Technology Emily Howarth has worked extensively on the development of the new degree, and is energized by the way that it responds to the employment needs of northern Nevada.

“We recognize that a student who has seen the theory and practiced the skills of more than one line of work has the best chance of being an asset to an employer,” says Howarth. “The economic climate has caused a shift in the needs of businesses and manufacturers. Rather than investing in new equipment, they are finding more value by investing in people who can operate and maintain the equipment they already have. The technology degree offers students the opportunity to train to meet the demands of our local industries.” Automatted systems and general industrial technology are newly added emphases for the college, while the construction, machine tool and welding emphases are redeveloped versions of existing WNC programs.

“The goal is to help diversify the workforce,” says Howarth. “Students can try different skills; they are not locked into a singular expertise.”

The curriculum adds courses in drafting and applied industrial technology to the existing emphases to provide students with a more diverse skill set. New classes in pneumatics and hydraulics will be available, and shop mathematics and technical writing have been added to teach students practical math and English skills for the workplace.

The AAS Technology degree also offers a great amount of flexibility for students, enabling them to complete degree requirements more quickly. Some classes can be taken online, and because of the hands-on nature of these trades, WNC is able to offer day and evening open labs, allowing students to complete coursework at times that don’t conflict with work or family schedules. Course options also tie to the Tech Prep program for students who enter degree programs through Fast Track classes while still in high school.

“The degree allows the college to maintain an identity as a vocational training facility,” Howarth said. “There are many embedded opportunities for nationally recognized industry certifications along the way, and Certificate of Achievements for each specialization will be updated soon” says Howarth.

TRANSFER DEGREES
Associate of Arts • Associate of Science

WNC students may select a course of study that enables them to complete some or all of the lower division requirements for a four-year degree from the list of transfer programs at the University of Nevada, Reno, University of Nevada, Las Vegas, Nevada State College or other schools. Recent surveys of WNC students show they have transferred to colleges throughout the country including: UNR; UNLV; Nevada State College; Southern Utah University; University of New Mexico; Arizona State University; California State University, Sacramento; University of California at Berkeley; University of Kentucky; University of Southern California; Truckee Meadows Community College; University of Phoenix; Cosumnes River College-Los Rios; Lake Tahoe Community College; Great Basin College, Salt Lake Community College, and many more.

Every year, large numbers of WNC students successfully transfer to other schools. Each school has its own specific requirements and recommended electives for its various degrees. Community college students who plan to transfer to the University of Nevada, Reno, University of Nevada, Las Vegas or Nevada State College and who did not complete the university entrance requirements in high school must complete a minimum of 24 transferable units with a minimum 2.5 grade point average. Students who earn an Associate of Arts or Associate of Science degree will be admitted to an NSHE university or state college regardless of their grade point average.

SPOTLIGHT
CAREER AMBITIONS
Come to Light for 1996 High School Graduate

As a young parent and high school graduate, Daren Kight knew he wanted more for himself and his family. He wanted a career. More than a decade later, Kight is on course to reach that goal as a Western Nevada College student and the 2013 recipient of the Nevada System of Higher Education Regents’ Scholar Award.

The 1996 Carson High School graduate initially enrolled at WNC in 2009. Since resuming his education, Kight has been highly successful in the classroom, and discovered a career ambition while working in the college’s counseling office.

“What better way to help people than through social work,” Kight said. “The field is so broad — veterans and school districts — just about everything has social work involved in it.”

In his role at the counseling office, Kight can provide nervous prospective students a comforting perspective and help them understand that their anxiety isn’t uncommon.

Kight recalls how nervous he was when he decided to give up his job in Christian fellowship and return to school.

“No matter how hard something might get, keep trying and try again until you succeed.”

“I wasn’t big on high school. That wasn’t the highlight of my life,” Kight said. “I had a lot of fears when I started at WNC with the one class. At the same time, I have children, I was working and my wife was working … I didn’t know how it was all going to work out. Every semester I realized I could do more.

In hindsight, Kight said perseverance through difficult times eventually pays off.

His academic record and the assistance he has given to new and prospective students are, in part, why the WNC sophomore was selected as a Regents’ Scholar winner. The Carson City resident will receive a $5,000 stipend to use toward his future education costs, and he’ll be one of nine top scholars statewide honored during an awards ceremony in May in Reno.

After graduating from WNC in the fall, Kight plans to enroll at the University of Nevada, Reno, where he will work toward a Bachelor of Social Work degree.

“I know when I get to UNR, (the award is) something that will be on my transcript. The (social worker school) is something that I have to apply for … it’s not easy to get in,” Kight said.
The Associate of Arts degree is primarily for students planning to transfer with junior standing to a four-year college or university for a baccalaureate degree. It can be used to transfer into a wide variety of majors depending on the courses selected. Satisfactory completion of an AA degree guarantees completion of the lower division general education requirements at UNR, UNLV or NSC.

Courses with a number under 100 (such as ENG 95) are not applicable toward the Associate of Arts degree. All courses to be counted toward this degree must be university transferable.

CAREER DEGREE

Associate of Applied Science

A CAREER DEGREE

Students enrolled in any of these programs will benefit from "hands-on" laboratory experience within their major field. They will enter the job market with specific skills and knowledge useful for employment and advancement. The Associate of Applied Science degree is available for those students who desire a two-year course of study and training in an occupational and/or technical career field. Although the AAS degree is not designed to be a transfer program, some courses will transfer to four-year colleges or universities. Students who wish to transfer to a four-year school should consult a WNC counselor. Coursework must total at least 60 units.

All Associate of Applied Science degree and certificate programs require completion of appropriate courses in computation, communication and human relations. Additionally, introductory courses in applied science and technology as well as allied health programs include instruction in safety, industrial safety and environmental awareness, as appropriate. Students with previous occupational or practical experience may be eligible to challenge certain course requirements and prerequisites. Courses with a number under 100 (such as ENG 095) are not applicable toward an Associate of Applied Science degree at WNC.

In some cases, courses may not transfer to other Nevada community colleges and Nevada State College or to other colleges and universities. See a WNC counselor for the latest transfer information.

A maximum of six units of special topics classes in one subject area may apply toward any WNC degree.

To make decisions about specific emphases under the Associate of Applied Science degree, please refer to the academic programs pages or see a WNC counselor.

Welding, Auto Mechanics Courses Also Available at Fallon Campus

Students living in Fallon, Fernley, and nearby rural communities now have easier access for learning job skills in welding and automotive technology. Western Nevada College is regularly offering automotive technology and welding classes at the Fallon campus, in addition to the welding and automotive programs in place at the Carson City campus.

WNC offers an Associate of Applied Science degree in both Welding and Automotive Mechanics. It also offers courses that can apply toward industry certifications.

All WNC automotive instructors are certified through ASE, the National Institute for Automotive Excellence. The automotive technology curriculum also follows ASE standards.

The Welding Technology program teaches competencies that help students prepare for code exams, and allows students to progress at their own pace.

As Nevada and the rest of the country rebound from economic recession, there has been a renewed interest for adults of all ages to learn a trade or add a skill.

“The college auto and welding labs are assets to the college and community, and let's take advantage of them,” said David Steiger, WNC director of Economic Development.

Instructors are noticing that many students are seeking to learn a trade that is in demand in the job market, while others are broadening their professional skill set to enhance job security.

“The interest is there, and people are realizing they need to get a skill under their belt that they can take with them in the future,” said Ray Hockemeier, a welding instructor in Fallon.

Nursing Program Application Process

Apply for admission to Western Nevada College and the WNC nursing program. Applications for the next fall are available on the WNC Nursing & Allied Health web site on or after January 2. The last date for submission of an application to Admissions and Records is April 1.

Prerequisites: Students must complete all prerequisite courses with a grade of "C" or better to apply for the nursing program. (C- or lower will not be accepted.)

Students may apply for admission into the nursing program while in the process of completing a prerequisite course(s), providing the course is completed by the end of the applicable spring semester or, if taken at another institution, an official transcript showing completion of the course is provided by June 1 of the year of application. Evidence of courses in progress must be submitted by the application deadline.

Corequisites: Students who are accepted into the nursing program must complete all corequisite courses with a grade of "C" or better by the end of the fourth semester of the program. (A grade of C- or lower will not be accepted.) Any corequisite course(s) completed with a "C" or better prior to admission into the nursing program will be calculated into the grade point average under admission selection criteria.

Academic Skills Testing: Students are required to take an academic skills test as part of the application process. Visit www.wnc.edu/academics/division/nalh/ after September for specific information.

Residency: An applicant who is classified as a Nevada resident for tuition purposes at Western Nevada College at the time of application to the nursing program will be awarded one (1) point in the nursing admissions selection criteria.

Maximum Possible Points: 19

Admission to the nursing program will be based on special admission procedures and the number of points an applicant receives. Eligible students will be numerically ranked according to total points. In the event of applicants having an equal number of points, lots will be drawn to decide eligibility. Admission will be offered to the applicants on the list with the highest priority points. Applicants not selected will not be carried forward and must reapply for consideration.

Students Requesting Transfer & Re-Admission

Readmission Policy for the Nursing Program

A student who matriculated into the Western Nevada College nursing program may be readmitted one time following a withdrawal/failure. A written request for an exemption to the policy for such reasons as medical or military concerns will be considered by the Nursing Program Readmission Committee.

Students are eligible to be considered for readmission or transfer into the nursing program using a point system and on a space available basis.

Students seeking readmission or transfer into the nursing program will be required to demonstrate currency of knowledge and skills by passing competency evaluations for selected nursing theory and nursing laboratory courses previously successfully completed. Students may choose the option to repeat those courses, or will be required to repeat those courses if the competency examinations are not successfully passed. A score of 75% or more is required for each theory competency evaluation and a passing grade is required for selected skill competencies, including basic nursing assessment skills.

Students should contact the nursing program administrative assistant for information regarding fees and scheduling of competency evaluations. Students who withdraw from or who failed a course or courses that are related (e.g. NURS 136, 137 and 138) will be required to repeat all courses in the sequence.

Nursing courses taken more than three years prior to reapplication or prior to transfer application will not be accepted and will need to be repeated.

Students seeking readmission or transfer into the nursing program will be required to submit an acceptable background check.

The Nursing Program Readmission Committee will review applications of students who are seeking readmission into the program. The committee acknowledges the responsibility to readmit students, who in the judgment of the committee, satisfy the requirements of scholarship and professional suitability for nursing. The committee reserves the right to deny readmission based on a history of unprofessional conduct which violates the ANA Code of Ethics.

Certification and licensing preparation programs are designed to prepare students to take state or other certified licensing exams. It is important to note that while these programs prepare students to obtain a certification, WNC does not grant any of these certifications.

While these course programs are designed to prepare students to take a licensing exam, the completion of these courses does not include the actual licensing exam and successful completion of the courses does not guarantee receiving the license or certification.

WNC certification and licensing preparation programs include:

ALLIED HEALTH

Certified Nursing Assistant
A certified nursing assistant class is offered through the Division of Nursing and Allied Health. The college offers NURS 130 - Nursing Assistant, a six-unit class that prepares students to take the Nevada licensing exam for certification as a nursing assistant.

A Certified Nursing Assistant is an individual who, under the direction of a licensed nurse, typically provides basic nursing care for patients in long-term and acute care institutions. CNAs are educated to assist patients with activities of daily living such as bathing, feeding and dressing, and to help maintain a safe and protective care environment. As they have extensive daily contact with patients, CNAs also play a key role in communicating information/observations to the nurse.

Emergency Medical Services
Emergency Medical Services courses are offered through the Division of Nursing and Allied Health. They include: EMS 100 - Healthcare Provider CPR, EMS 113 - First Responder, EMS 108 - EMT Basic, and EMS 112 - EMT enhanced (Intermediate). EMS courses are offered in a sequential series to prepare individuals with the knowledge and skills to assess and care for patients in an emergency or in an out-of-hospital setting. Completion of select courses is designed to prepare students to take the National Registry Examination for EMT-Basic and the appropriate Nevada EMS certification examination for EMT Enhanced (Intermediate).

EMS 108 and EMS 112 are designed to meet the National Standard Curriculum published by the United States Department of Transportation, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

A background check may be required by some clinical sites prior to the start of clinical experiences. Information about how to meet this requirement will be explained by the course instructor. Drug screening may be required by health care organizations. See the Nursing & Allied Health web site for the process and procedures to follow.

Information . . . . 775-445-3296

Laboratory Technician-Phlebotomy
Phlebotomy classes (LTE 101 and LTE 102), which are offered through the Division of Nursing and Allied Health, are listed in the class schedule under the Laboratory Technician heading. These courses provide students with knowledge and skills necessary to perform the collection, identification, and preservation of specimens as applied to venipuncture techniques.

Phlebotomists are trained to collect blood specimens by safely performing skin puncture or venipuncture procedures on patients of all ages. They are required to adhere to strict policies and safety precautions designed to provide patient protection and comfort, and to assure safe handling of specimens throughout the collection process.

NOTE: These courses have mandatory prerequisites. Tip

MANAGE YOUR TIME WISELY...

A 3-credit/unit class requires three hours of in-class time per week (a 4-credit/unit class requires four hours in class per week). For every one hour you spend in class, set aside a minimum of two extra hours of study time outside of class.

If I take ___ credits/units, then I should expect to spend ___ x 3 = ___ hours per week in class and studying.

Add this number of hours to the number of hours you are working, eating, sleeping, exercising, and socializing...do you have enough hours in the week?

Tip

SUCCEED WITH ONLINE CLASSES...

Online and hybrid classes are delivered using the internet. These courses are not faster or easier than in-person classes, nor are they self-paced. Answer these questions truthfully...

- Are you self-motivated?
- Is your reading comprehension good?
- Do you have strong computer skills?
- Do you feel OK about missing the social elements in the classroom?
- Do you own a computer?
- Do you have high speed internet service?
